SSKL Start #87 (W 06) - 1:18

Between 1927 and 1933, the Mercedes-Benz Racing Cars made their debut at all the world's important racing competitions. They were the "victory monsters" of an impressive winning streak and were affectionately dubbed "white elephants". Famous racing drivers such as Hans Stuck, Carlos Zastutzek, Manfred von Brauchitsch and Bernd Rosemeyer played an important role in these overwhelming successes. But one man beat them all: Rudolf Caracciola, the titan at the steering wheel. Rudolf Caracciola competed in the Mille Miglia 1931, driving the No. 87 car - a SSKL that weighed about 125 kg less than the SSK. It drove the crowds wild after 1,635 km on the road. No Italian drivers could hold a candle to Rudolf Caracciola, who sensationally won this world-famous long distance race in a new record time.

This detail model with moving parts such as engine hood, levers on the steering wheel, windscreen. The model is in a styrofoam packing with additional cardboard. Scale: 1:18. Manufacturer: CMC .

Racing Transporter with W196 Streamliner - 1:87

Mercedes-Benz racing-car transporter with Streamliner of 1954. It was not before 1954 that Daimler-Benz returned to international motor sport. The very first start of the completely newly developed W 196 with streamlined bodywork in the French Grand Prix in Reims became a great success. Drivers Juan Manuel Fangio and Karl Kling clinched an impressive double victory. To be able to carry the Grand Prix racing cars to the different racetracks and back and repair them quickly, the famous racing-car transporter was built. The filigree models, completely made of metal, come in a set as a memento of this grand era in Mercedes-Benz motor sport.

2012 Classic Calendar - The Legendary SL

The year 2012 is the year of the SL legend. The 2012 Classic Calendar presents the models of the Mercedes-Benz SL series from six decades in a very special way: Historic themes and motifs from various decades were projected onto the vehicles and the Mercedes-Benz Museum (Stuttgart, Germany), using a high-performance projector (renowned photographer: Dietmar Henneke). The results are a spectacular display of light and color, contrast and structure. Information on the vehicle and the projected image of each month is included. The 2012 Classic Calendar incorporates a continuous date line, making the calendar literally timeless. It can be enjoyed for years. Dimensions: 27 inches x 19 inches.
